

Every Threatening One

Peter Eldridge

Setting the table for the bonfire
Light the candles bright
I foresee a hot time tonight
Take a number and get in line
About to open up the door
Say haven't we all met before
Look who's back again
Like a bunch of long lost friends
Every threatening one
Staring down every threatening one
Staring down every threatening one
Oh, consider it done

Sitting round the table, my desires
To you I make a toast
A special tribute from your friendly ghost
With admiration, one thing I missed
As we sit face to face
It was never you in the first place
Just the denying kiss
Then the big eclipse
I found my place in the sun
Here's to you, every threatening one
Staring down every threatening one
Oh, consider it done

Sing for me
Won't you sing for me
Don't you sing for me

Always caught me unawares
Always had me running scared
Guess I owe you one
Every threatening one
Staring down every threatening one

Stronger in the long run
Oh consider it done
